Brookline Bank Names Paul Flannery as Vice President, Commercial Banking

BROOKLINE, MA June 8, 2018 – Paul J. Flannery has joined Brookline Bank as Vice President in the Commercial Banking Division. Flannery brings over 25 years of business banking experience to Brookline Bank's Commercial team. Flannery previously held senior banking roles at financial institutions in Boston and around New England.

"Paul brings an incredibly successful track record in building lasting client relationships," said William MacKenzie, Commercial Banking Division Executive. "He has a strong understanding of the Boston area banking and business scene, along with a passion for identifying opportunities for clients. We are very pleased to welcome him to our team."

In previous positions, Flannery was consistently rated as a top performer in loan growth and referrals. Flannery's experience encompasses an expansive clientele, including manufacturers, wholesalers, and service companies. In addition to his success in managing commercial and industrial loan portfolios, Flannery has a proven history of success lending to foundations, universities and other not-for-profit organizations as well as high net worth individuals.
